

Part 1: Model Answer

Do you prefer hot or cold weather?

Definitely hot weather. I've never understood people who prefer being in cold weather. I really notice a big change in my mood depending on the weather. When it's warm in the summer, I have a lot more energy and optimism about the world. When it's cold, I much prefer spending my time indoors, reading or watching series. Unfortunately, now I live in Scotland, which has a pretty cold and wet climate and very long winters.

Useful expressions

I much prefer

A way to express your preferences.

"I much prefer cold weather because I find it uncomfortable when it's too hot."

I find (x) (comparison) than (y)

A way to compare two things.

"I find hot weather much more pleasant than cold weather."

To be honest, I don't really have a preference.

A fluent way to say that you don't prefer hot weather more than cold weather.

"To be honest, I don't really have a preference. I like both hot and cold weather."

I'd take (x) over (y) any day.

A way to emphasise that you like x more than y.

"I'd take hot weather over cold weather any day."
